No-License Ballots Disappeared.

There was a story circulating Tuesday to the effect that a quantity of nolicense ballots mysteriously disappeared while the election was in progress in the town of Brooklyn on Monday. The loss of the ballots gave the temperance people a chill for a time, for there was a possibility of losing the fight because of a shortage of ballots, but a demand was made on the temperance workers in Killingly for an additional supply, which were forthcoming, and the day was saved. Where the tickets that were lost went to has not become public knowledge as yet.

TO CLOSE SALOONS. Liquor Dealers Have Only One Month More.

Thene was much discussion of the turn-over in Killingly on the license question during Tuesday. The general impression among the hoense men is that they lost the fight because some disarished politicians in the north part of the town did not get what they wanted in the democratic caucus on Saturday afternoon of last week. There was a faction at Attawaugan and Baliouville that were strong for nominating three selectmen on the and Ballouville that were strong for nominating three selectmen on the democratic ticket, and because they could not carry the point they were very much dissatisfied and some of them openly stated that they would work against license to even up matters. The victory for license last year was gained with a majority of forty votes and a change of only 25 votes in the entire town, with nearly 1,500 votes. votes and a change of only 25 votes in the entire town, with nearly 1,500 vot-ters, was all that was necessary to swing the town in the dry list with a Monday's election. TEAMS COLLIDED.

J. W. Alger Thrown Out When He As the result of a collision of two teams on Jackson street Tuesday evening at 6.45 o'clock, J. N. Aliver, formerly of this city, is in St. Joseph's hospital in a badly shaken up condition. Mr. Alger was driving to his home in Mansfield Center, and when near the Frye place collided with the heavier vehicle of Herbert O. Huntington of Mansfield, who was also driving toward home. The street is quite dark at this point, both teams were keeping to the right, and apparently Mr. Alger was not aware that a team was ahead. His horse hooked the wheels and Mr. Alger was thrown exception of some $5,000 that was borrowed.

Thus the water fund indebtedness is reduced $50,000 and the city will save $2,000 of interest money each year. The water department has, this year, received the most in receipts of any year since it was incorporated.

About $2,000 of rents, however, have been overdue and these the authorities have been collecting. This was in accordance with a resolution passed the head. The ambulance was sent for and he was hurried to the hospital.

He regained consciousness last night and will recover, it is thought.

His buggy was smashed, and the horse ran away, but was caught. Mr. Huntington did everything possible to aid Mr. Alger, ald Mr. Alger
